

Saskatchewan Leaders Caucus

Code of Conduct for the Saskatchewan Leaders Caucus

- The relationship between individual members and the Saskatchewan Leaders Caucus (SKLC) is one of trust. It is essential that there is a commitment to honesty and integrity. Members are expected to act at all times honestly and in good faith.
- Members conduct shall reflect social standards of courtesy and respect during meetings and all other interactions within the caucus and when representing the SK LC.
- Members actions will be consistent with the goals and the direction decided upon by the SK LC.
- If asked to comment publicly on behalf of the SKLC members will contact Don Giesbrecht to decide on what message/information will be shared. If Don cannot be reached members will contact the chair or co-chairs of the SKLC.
- Members commit to working as a team. We understand that we can accomplish more when we all take responsibility for completing tasks in a timely manner that will move the work of the caucus forward.
- Members commit to research and learning about issues related to the goals and subsequent action plans of the caucus. Information provided to the caucus by the CCCF, members and other groups will be read and reflected upon.
- Members commit to using resources in a responsible and ethical manner.
